When I was in my prenticeship and learning of my trade, I courted my master's daughter, which made my heart right glad.
I courted her both summers days and winter nights al- so But I never could her favor win till I hired the Bogle Bo.

- - - [bridge/break] - - -

Day being gone, and night coming on, my neighbor he took a sheet And straight into her room he went just like a wandering spreet.
She went running up and down,
not knowing where to go But right into my bed she went for fear of the Bogle Bo.

- - - [extra break cycles ad lib] - - -

And | so my true | love and me,
 we | both fell fast a- | sleep,
 But | ere the morn at | fair daylight,
 sore, | sore did she | weep
 Sore, | sore did she | weep;
 sore, | sore did she | mourn
 But | ere she rose and | put on her clothes,
 the | Bogle Bo was | gone.

You've | done the thing to | me last night,
 the | thing you cannot | shun
 You've | ta'en from me my | maidenhead,
 and | I am quite un- | done.
 You've | ta'en from me my | maidenhead,
 and | brought my body | low.
 | But, kind sir, if you'll | marry me,
 I | will be your | jo.

- - - [bridge/break] - - -

Now he's | married her and | ta'en her hame,
 and | it was but his | part
 She's | proved to him a | loving wife,
 and | joy of all his | heart;
 He | never told her | of the joke,
 nor | ne'er intends to | do
 But | aye when his wife, she | smiles on him, he | minds the Bogle | Bo.
